Stralsund - world cultural heritage with a renewed splendour

Stralsund acquired Luebeck city status in October 1234. In order to protect the town, which was developing at a fast pace, building works on a city wall were soon commenced.

The surrounding walls became a permanent fixture of the city as early as in the 13th Century. At this time extended commerce to the north, east and west as well as the incorporation into the Hansa union were initiated. Stralsund was on its way to becoming one of the most significant Hanseatic cities. A rapid economical development set in. Stralsund ships were represented at all important trading centres. One of the most significant historical events of the Hansa is inseparably linked with the name Stralsund: The peace treaty of 24th May 1370 was signed here.

From the 17th Century onwards the Hanseatic city played an important role in the Swedish military major power system. Thanks to the provisions of the Peace of Westphalia, Stralsund finally came under Swedish rule and went on in 1720 to become the centre of power of Swedish Western Pomerania.

After the city was occupied for a short time by the French and after Ferdinand von Schill died on 31st May 1809 in the Fährstraße, the Stralsund Swedish period came to an end in 1815. The whole of Pomerania fell into the hands of the Prussians and so Stralsund with it too.

The Prussia period was followed by the dark era of fascism. The bombing attack on 6th October 1944, which took the lives of many people, hit the city hard. During the socialist period which followed, many old buildings were at risk of falling into disrepair. This danger could be banished however with the political turning in 1989. After that a continuous redevelopment was started of the building structure worth protecting. The efforts of the Hanseatic city of Stralsund to preserve the medieval city structure were rewarded as the historical old towns of Stralsund and Wismar were included together in the UNESCO world heritage list in 2002.

2009 is a reason for the Hanseatic city to celebrate - after a stately 775 years it is in greatest shape.

Well-fortified walls - proud churches

The most monumental sacral building of Stralsund is the gothic St. Mary's Basilica (Basilika St. Marien).

The view from the West tower with its baroque cupola, which visitors can walk up, stretches on a clear day far onto the Rügen islands, Hiddensee and Western Pomerania Lagoon Area.

Impressive features are the enormous Stellwagen Organ, a special musical treat, and the organ concerts on the powerful instrument, which the famous Friedrich Stellwagen from Luebeck had fitted between 1653 and 1659.

Between St. Mary's and the St Nicholai's Church (Ratskirche St. Nikolai) the "little sister" St. Jakobi is situated. Heavily destroyed over the centuries, the church was a great concern of the Hanseatic city until 1990. Since then the church has been restored step by step.

Art and culture have now made their impact here. The St Nicholai's Church, with its striking double tower and connection to the historical city hall, is part of the unmistakable city panorama. The baroque altar based on designs by Andreas Schlüter, the astronomical clock and the famous "Nowgorodfahrer" seating are some of the most important features in terms of art history of the church erected in the 13th Century.

Museum world of contrasts

The German Sea Life Museum in the Saint Catherine's Monastery counts as one of the greatest jewels among the Stralsund Museums with its exotic aquariums.

Over 300,000 litres of sea water flow through the viewing tanks, in which the diverse types of Sea Life can be vividly seen, from the cute seahorses right through to the shark.

The "Nautineum" on Dänholm also counts as part of the Sea Life Museum.

In 2008 the "Ozeaneum", North Germany's biggest spectacular museum building, opened on Stralsunds Harbour Island (Hafeninsel).

The just under 40 huge seawater aquariums are a public attraction, which portray a journey through the under water world of the Northern seas.

In the ancient St. Catherine Dominican Monastery (Dominikanerkloster St. Katharinen) the Culture and History Museum is also located, where an extensive collection of early regional history and prehistory among other things found its home. Even the famous gold jewellery of Hiddensee from the 10th Century can be marvelled at here.

In the Abbey of St. John by the north city wall, a special experience awaits visitors. The cloister, the magnificent rose garden, the baroque library, the chapter house with precious wall paintings and the "smoking floor" of the ancient Franciscan monastery (Franziskanerkloster) bring the past centuries back to life.

Shaped by the water

The Stralsund city harbour has always attracted tourists and locals with its maritime offerings. Ferries go several times a day from the quay to the unspoilt Hiddensee island.

Crossing over to Altefähre on the island of Rügen is a shorter, yet amazing experience. Situated right opposite the Hanseatic city of Stralsund, the traditional fishing village boasts a view of the Stralsund silhouette backdrop

North of Rügendamm, approximately 70 m away, the new Rügenbrücke bridge sets the city panorama today.

Whether from sea or land, Stralsund is seen by visitors from its best side all year round.

Perhaps the nicest piece of seafaring history has been situated on the pier in the city harbour since 2003. "Gorch Fock" once stood on its rear, and was called "Towarischtsch" for a while. Now it has got its old name "Gorch Fock" back.

The windjammer now reminds one of the splendid time of tall ships.

Stralsund German Sea Life Museum

Experience the sea in the museum

The sea has always fascinated people. The DEUTSCHES MEERESMUSEUM has set itself the task of enabling this fascination to be experienced. Alongside the new OZEANEUM, visitors immerse themselves in totally different worlds of experience at three other museum locations.

Tropical seas behind monastery walls

The Stralsund MEERESMUSEUM (sea museum) in the ancient St Catherine's Dominican Monastery has attracted visitors for more than 50 years. Oceanography, marine biology, fishing as well as fauna and flora of the Baltic Sea are displayed on three showroom levels. Particularly impressive is the 15 metre long skeleton of a finback, which "floats" in the ancient church choir. The polar bear, Japanese spider crab, leatherback turtle & co. are more original preparations or true-to-original exhibits. The aquariums, most of which are located in the basement vaults in the MEERESMUSEUM, are swarming with such things as carpet sharks, cute seahorses and colourful butterfly fish. The public's favourites are the sea turtles which live in a 350,000 litre aquarium and can be observed through a large pane of roughly 3m x 8m in size. You can spend time at the museum bistro "Tartaruga" after going around - with a view of Germany's largest sea turtle tank.

Feel like an oceanographer

Since 1999, you can find the NAUTINEUM on Dänholm in Stralsund, an exhibition centre for fishing, oceanography, hydrography and sea waterways. There you will get an overview of Pomeranian inshore fishing among other things. In the boathouse, with an architecturally unusual height of 14 m, the museum's "Zeesboot STR 9" is located with fully extended sails, plus some smaller "Strandboote" (beach boats). On the open-air exhibition ground with its beautiful trees and children's adventure playground, there are many impressive exhibits on show, such as cutters, an original fisherman's shed and the first German underwater habitat BAH 1. A special highlight is the "Helgoland" underwater laboratory, which can even be explored inside. But the NAUTINEUM, this prime seat by the sound, has even more to offer, such as a splendid view of the unmistakable Stralsund skyline and the new Rügenbrücke.

First to the lighthouse then back through the Darss forest

The NATUREUM is located right by the Darsser Ort lighthouse near Prerow. This natural history museum in the Western Pomerania Lagoon Area National Park (Vorpommersche Boddenlandschaft) is home to exhibitions on the natural space of Darsser Ort, on the Baltic Sea coast and on the animals of the Darss Region. The re-enacted "Darss Forest at night" scene, with crepuscular animals, situated in the basement vault of the ancient lighthouse attendant house, is particularly facilitating. Baltic Sea Aquariums, a beach and sand dune garden and wetland biotope are also part of the NATUREUM just like the walk-in lighthouse, which boasts a magnificent panoramic view over land and sea. Plus a touch of aromatic Baltic Sea air at no extra cost. After you have gone up the tower it is definitely worth visiting the museum café by the lighthouse, which is joined to the NATUREUM. You can then head back via the Darsser forest with an invigorated feeling either on foot, by bike or on horse-drawn carriage.

OZEANEUM
Stralsund

OZEANEUM Stralsund

In July 2008 the OZEANEUM opened on Stralsund's harbour island, a further site of the German Sea Life Museum and Northern Germany's largest new museum building at the same time.

The extensive aquarium tours with huge tanks in some places portray a journey through the underwater world of the northern seas. In the Baltic Sea aquarium the visitor ascends deep into the Stralsund port basin and experiences the diverse flora and fauna of the different sea regions. Besides well-known types of fish such as flounders or cods, the aquariums are also teeming with unusual animals such as catfish.

In the North Sea aquarium the habitats of the North Sea, the North Atlantic and the polar sea are on show. A generous tunnel aquarium is dedicated to Helgoland, the only rock island of Germany. A tide tank simulates ebb and flow and the breaker tank too ensures movement. The largest tank in the OZEANEUM shows life in the open Atlantic. It contains 2.6 million litres of seawater.

With the OZEANEUM Stralsund has the largest Baltic Sea Exhibition in the whole of Europe. Further exhibitions on the ocean and on the exploration and use of the seas await you with numerous original exhibits, such as the legendary "GEO" submersible. The "Meer für Kinder" ("Sea for children") arouses the enquiring mind of younger visitors with its points for fun and games. Truly breathtaking are the "1:1 - giants of the seas": Simulations of whales in their original size float over the entire height of the ceiling. The largest exhibit is the simulations of a blue whale with a length of 26 metres.

Western Pomerania theatre Greifswald Stralsund Putbus

THEATER VORPOMMERN

Three theatres that were originally Stralsund's, Greifswald's and Putbus' own theatres have been working under one name and one management since they merged to become the Theater Vorpommern GmbH, with one common goal: to present exciting, ambitious and entertaining shows in the areas of musical theatre, plays, ballet and concerts. With around 20 premières every season, eight philharmonic concerts as well as various chamber and special concerts and numerous guest performances, the Theater Vorpommern has something on offer for every age and taste.

Musical theatre exhilarates with productions of the humorous type such as "The Merry Widow" (Die Lustige Witwe) and presents famous operas such as "The knight of the Rose" (Der Rosenkavalier) by Richard Strauss or the comic opera "The Italian Girl in Algiers" by Gioacchino Rossini. Moreover, the musical theatre breaks new ground in Western Pomerania with lesser played works such as "The Fall of the Antichrist" (Der Sturz des Antichrist) by Viktor Ullmann or "The Consul" (Der Konsul) by Gian Carlo Menotti.

Classic authors such as William Shakespeare, Heinrich von Kleist or Anton Tschechow are on the play programme, alongside contemporary authors such as Yasmina Reza or Thomas Bernhard.

The Western Pomerania Ballet (BallettVorpommern) is also known for its diverse classic and modern offering. Ballet classics such as "The Nutcracker" are to be found on the programme beside premières of contemporary choreographies, e.g. "Goldberg Variations" / "Le Sacre du Printemps", two ballets by Ralf Dörnen.

The Western Pomerania philharmonic orchestra (Philharmonische Orchester Vorpommern) has made a name for itself as a constant guest at national and international music festivals and has been called on for radio recordings and live broadcasts on several occasions.

Moreover, the Theater Vorpommern presents a number of festivals each year: the Baltic Sea Festival (June - August), the "Tanztendenzen" (Oktober), die Putbus Festival (May) and more. Plus, the area of child and youth theatre is a significant focus of the theatre. Since September 2008 the Theater Vorpommern has also been organising concerts and performances in the Ozeaneum Stralsund.

Alongside the arty offering, the theatre houses themselves are worth a visit, e.g. the magnificent Art Nouveau theatre of Stralsund, which has been restored to its original shine after two and a half years of reconstruction, or the magical Putbus theatre.

The Stralsund and Greifswald Baltic Sea Festival

The Baltic Sea Festival has been offering ambitious, entertaining and thrilling theatre in a magical ambiance since 2003. With more than 20,000 visitors every year, the festival has turned into an important cultural attraction in Mecklenburg-Western Pomerania, which makes locals and tourists alike go wild from June until August.

You will experience musical delights in Stralsund. The operas "Zar and Zimmermann" (Tsar and Carpenter) (2003), "Die Zauberflöte" (The Magic Flute) (2004), "Aida" (2006) and "Hoffmanns Erzählungen" (The Tales of Hoffmann) (2007) as well as the musical "West Side Story" (2005) among other things were put on with great success on the Stralsund harbour open-air stage (Seebühne Stralsund). In 2008 the most loved melodies of Italy could be heard in "La Bella Musica" on the unique stage by the Baltic Sea. Also in 2009 visitors will experience something new: For the first time the Baltic Sea Festival will be presenting a 'romantic' operetta; "The Land of Smiles" (Das Land des Lächelns) by Franz Lehár.

The Seebühne Stralsund open-air stage, with more than 800 seats, is in the direct vicinity of the tall ship "Gorch Fock I", the marina, the Ozeaneum and the old town and offers unique surroundings with a view of the Sound.

In addition to the open air offerings, visitors can also indulge in dream-like sounds at other special venues in Stralsund. Superb musical theatre can be experienced, whatever the weather, in the St. Jacob Cultural Church (Kulturkirche St. Jakobi) and the Stralsund theatre, a jewel of the Baltic Sea coast, which was re-opened in 2008.

In the Hanseatic city of Greifswald the performances go from first-class, entertaining ballets of the BallettVorpommern (2003 to 2005) to musical performances such as "Hair" (2006). Since 2007 the Baltic Sea Festival in Greifswald has been presenting well-known Shakespeare comedies, thereby guaranteeing an amusing evening with an excellent backdrop. Visitors could enjoy "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (2007) and "Twelfth Night" (2008). In 2009 the third humorous play production in a row of the English poet is to follow with "The Taming of the Shrew".

The open-air stage at the Greifswald museum harbour with around 800 seats is situated at the idyllic harbour with a view of the historical old town.

Families too can experience a lot of things at the Baltic Sea Festival. In the midst of the picturesque play venue of the Eldena Abbey ruins, "Pippi Longstocking" (2005), "The Three Musketeers" (2006) and "Pinocchio" (2007, 2008) are up to their tricks. In 2009 Sams from "Eine Woche voller Samstage" (a week full of Saturdays) will join in. In the coming years the TheaterVorpommern will continue the successful running of the Baltic Sea Festival and present more highs in an impressive atmosphere (up-to-date information at www.ostseefestspiele.de).

Tourism centre of the Hanseatic City of Stralsund

There is more behind this term than just a point of reference for general tourist information or the sale of regional souvenirs.

We arrange rooms in hotels, boarding and holiday homes for you in Stralsund and in the near surroundings. Our visitor guides will show you the treasures of the world cultural heritage on a town or industry guided tour as well as the magnificent island paradise of Mecklenburg - Western Pomerania. Plus you will of course obtain tickets for a variety of events and concerts in the region with us here at the old marketplace.

We are reserving our crepuscular friends as a special highlight: Our famous night-watching guided tours. Explore dark corners when walking around the old town with a lantern in your hand. Scary stories included!

Or take a look behind the scenes when the Stralsund brewery opens its doors. Learn more about the history and the beer-brewing process. This guided tour is rounded off by a tasting of various kinds of beer at the end.

In order to make Stralsund even more interesting for visitors and locals, we also organise events such as the "Long Night of the Open Monument", which attracts thousands of night owls into the old town each year, or the "Tour d'Allée", a cycling tour for everybody over the new Rügenbrücke bridge with a fantastic view from a dizzy height, and last but not least, the spectacular harbour lights at the turn of the year,

Come by the next time you visit Stralsund or check the Internet beforehand at www.stralsundtourismus.de!

shipping company Weiße Flotte

Unforgettable: Harbour tour to the Rügenbrücke with new convertible ship

The Hanseatic city of Stralsund, located by the sound between the mainland and the Baltic Sea island of Rügen, shines with its splendid church and civil buildings as a once powerful trade and harbour town. The water was the substantial shaping element of the city in terms of type and structure. The island position between the Strelasund and the lakes retained on land is unique and has remained unaltered since the 13th Century.

Some argue that whoever has not seen Stralsund from water does not truly know the city. The view of the Stralsund old town skyline from the sea side, visible afar from any point of the compass, is undoubtedly the most impressive thing. If you would like to experience this unforgettable view of the Hanseatic city yourself, just take advantage of the offers of the shipping company "Weiße Flotte", which operates in the season several times a day between Stralsund and the small area of Altefähr in Rügen with its modern passenger ship MS "Altefähr" and a new convertible ship. Or how about a harbour tour past the new Rügenbrücke? Die MS "Altefähr" sails several times a day from May until October around the Dänholm. During this round trip you will have a free view across the Strelasund of the old town of Stralsund and the nearby Rügen coast.

Trip to the Hiddensee island

You will discover pure relaxation and recreation on Rügen's little sister island. No later than when you cross over to the Hiddensee island the healthy sea air will caress your face.

Hiddensee, which is incidentally one of the most sun-lit places in Germany, is situated like a wave breaker in front of Rügen west coast.

It is roughly 18 km long and one kilometre wide. The inhabitants and aficionados of the island fondly call it the "söte Länneken" meaning "sweet land".

The island, through being car-free, boasts a variety of nature still in its unaltered beauty, and is not a source of rest and relaxation for stressed people only.

Famous people from culture and science acknowledged this as early as the beginning of the 20th century. Gerhart Hauptmann, Thomas Mann and even Albert Einstein could appreciate the beauty of the island like uncountable others. A worthwhile trip. Enjoy all the crossing comforts on board the modern lagoon area cruising fleet of the "Reederei Hiddensee" shipping company.
